

National Junior Honor Society Requirements

Students in seventh grade are required to have maintained a 3.5 GPA or above for the first three nine weeks of seventh grade after which point they will receive an invitation to apply to become a member. Students may be disqualified from being invited to apply due to disciplinary history, though. In order to apply they must fill out a student data sheet cataloging their in school and out of school activities, write an essay about why they believe they embody the five pillars of NJHS, have a formal letter of recommendation written on their behalf by an adult, and receive three positive recommendations from previous teachers. Once the applications are reviewed the decision is made by the co-sponsors as to who gets in. (Generally speaking, though, if a student satisfies the GPA and application requirements, they usually will get in.)
